Lori Nalli's legal career began thirty-three (33) years ago working in law firms in Chicago, Illinois, and in the Metro Detroit, Michigan area. Throughout her career, she has primarily worked on complex litigation matters and embraces the challenge and excitement the legal process can bring. Today, Lori is a paralegal in the Business Litigation Department and the majority of her work is focused on assisting her lawyers in mortgage foreclosure cases and complex probate litigation.

Lori obtained her certification as a legal secretary and as a paralegal from the University of Michigan in Flint. She and her husband have been married for eighteen years and have three pets, two cats and a dog. Lori enjoys reading (mostly early John Grisham books), traveling and taking on new challenges - one of which was running the Chicago Marathon at the age of forty-four (44)!

Lori has found Henderson Franklin to be one of the friendliest firms she's had the pleasure of working for and enjoys learning new aspects and strategies from the lawyers she works with.
