Spencer is an associate in the firm's Fort Myers office and focuses her practice in workers' compensation defense. She represents public and private employers throughout Florida at every stage of defending a workers' compensation claim, from making sure employers file and respond with proper documentation to preparing witnesses for deposition and trial. Spencer is admitted to practice in all Florida state courts.

Spencer has served as co-chair of the Florida Defense Lawyers Association's Workers' Compensation Section since 2018. She previously served as a staff attorney's intern for the 20th Judicial Circuit Court, and an intern for Safari Club International.

While in law school, Spencer served as Editor-in-Chief of the Ave Maria School of Law International Law Journal and Treasurer of Phi Alpha Delta. She also served as a teacher's assistant to Professor Peter Carfagna in areas of Advanced Contract Drafting and Advanced Sports Law. Spencer was also the recipient of Ave Maria School of Law's Dean's Scholarship.

Spencer was born and raised in Southwest Florida, graduating from Naples High School, Florida Gulf Coast University and Ave Maria School of Law. When not working, she enjoys paddle boarding and traveling.
